I'm UI Designer and Front End Developer living in Toronto with clients all over the world. I began my professional web design career in 2000. Since then I have designed a number of websites ranging from small single page experiments to large corporate and government projects. Occasionally I stray into print and corporate identity, but my true love is interactive design.

Currently I'm working full time as a lead designer and front-end developer at Inorbital, freelancing during my "free" time, and providing private web design lessons to students.

At work I'm a passionate perfectionist who enjoys healthy competition and a challenge. When I'm not working I enjoy playing piano, guitar, free diving and motorcycles.

MY TOOLS

I have advanced knowledge with Photoshop & Dreamweaver, two programs always open on my computer. I enjoy hand coding semantic HTML and CSS using latest tips and tricks to make things work across browser palette. I have intermediate knowledge with jQuery and Javascript and I use them daily when building website's front-end. Other major tools I'm using on my projects are Illustrator, Flash & InDesign. I also have some experience with Premiere & 3D Studio.

EMPLOYMENT (References available upon request)

April 2008 - present | INORBITAL | Lead Designer & Front-End Developer

Responsible for UI design and front-end development of mostly corporate and e-commerce websites from start to finish. I'm involved in projects from first discovery interview with the client, to concept design, front-end development and finally CMS implementation.

June 2005 - April 2008 | AFFINITIV | Creative Team Leader and Office Manager

I was responsible for organizing 7 people team in Belgrade Office for Singapore based company. I conducted constant communication with clients in person or through written reports. As creative team leader I designed almost all projects and coordinated other designers and developers. In 2007 I moved to Toronto but continued working for Affinitiv until 2008.

October 2000 – June 2005 | STUDIOMATIC / POP PUBLIC | Creative Team Leader

Company was focused on web design and other multimedia projects. I worked on number of print designs, logos and graphic solutions involving corporate identities. As lead designer I built more then 30 medium to large sized web projects during this period.

June 1994 – October 2000 | TV POLITIKA | CGI Designer & Freelance Web Designer

I created computer graphic solutions for the needs of live and edited TV program. During this time I also designed several logos for TV shows. In 1998 I also started working as a freelance web designer focusing on websites designed in Flash mostly.
